

HEINRICH BÖLL STIFTUNG

伯尔基金会 -
中国民促会项目合作办公室

HBS PARTNERS

Chinese Association of NGO Corporation (CANGO): The Chinese Association of NGO Corporation, CANGO, is the official partner of Heinrich Boell Foundation in China. <http://www.cango.org/english/>

China Climate Action Network (CCAN): China Climate Action Network is a network consisting of more than 20 Chinese environmental NGOs which are active in climate protection. Activities such as workshops and study trips are organized to enhance capacity in Chinese NGOs, and to promote international dialogues regarding climate change in civil society. <http://www.c-can.cn/>

The Energy Research Institute (ERI): ERI of the National Development and Reform Commission (NDRC) was established in 1980. It is a national research organization conducting comprehensive studies on China's energy issues. <http://www.eri.org.cn/>

Friends of Nature: Fon was formally registered in March 1994 as the Academy for Green Culture, an affiliate to the non-governmental Academy for Chinese Culture. FON is a nonprofit, public welfare organization funded by membership fees and public support. FON promotes environmental protection and sustainable development in China by raising environmental awareness and initiating a 'green culture' among the public. <http://old.fon.org.cn/>

The Institute for China and Global Environmental Sustainability (CHANGES): CHANGES is non-profit, independent, and takes policy oriented participatory approach to conduct interdisciplinary and interactive research which integrates ecological, economic and social systems. It enables researchers and decision-makers from various sectors and the interested public, to interact, bringing together their diverse perspectives and approaches to develop paths for achieving sustainability. <http://www.changes.org.cn/>

CCCPE (China Center for Comparative Politics & Economics): A nonprofit academic institution associated with the Institute for Contemporary Studies of the Central Compilation & Translation Bureau (CCTB). <http://www.chinainnovations.org/>

SISU (College of International Journalism & Communication, Shanghai International Studies University): The College of International Journalism & Communication is a department of the Shanghai International Studies University (SISU), a key university in China, founded in December 1949. <http://www.ourjc.com/>

State Administration for NGOs, Ministry of Civil Affairs P. R. C (MoCA): State Administration for NGOs is in charge of the registration, management and evaluation of the increasing NGOs in China. <http://www.chinanpo.gov.cn/>

Center for Women's Law & Legal Services of Peking University: Founded in December 1995, the center provides all kinds of law assistance to protect woman's legal rights on societies, politics and economics area; raises women's consciousness of rights protection and regulation; eliminate their spiritual and cultural poverty; promote the development of personality; and help them to be self-respected and independent. <http://www.woman-legalaid.org.cn/>